

kin.educ.ubc.ca/hp-coaching

Achieve a Masters at UBC and get NCCP Advanced Coaching Diploma Credit

Are you a coach or technical leader looking for the pinnacle of high performance sport education while increasing your academic credentials?

The University of British Columbia's Masters of High Performance Coaching and Technical Leadership will be starting its ninth cohort this summer (June 2023). Students can also achieve the NCCP Advanced Coaching Diploma credit while earning their UBC Masters degree.

Targeting mature professionals who are working as full time coaches or technical leaders in their sport's podium pathway, the UBC program includes:

- A world class high performance curriculum taught by active practitioners in international sport science and coaching.
- Primarily on-line delivery, with a one-week face-to-face residency at UBC second week of June.
- Flexible admission is available to coaches or technical Leaders who may lack formal post-secondary education but have prior learning experience and proven background at the provincial, national or international levels of sport.

Presently, there are over 50 active graduate students in the High Performance Coaching and Technical Leadership program. Since its launch in 2015, over 100 students have graduated from the Certificate and over 35 have graduated from the Masters.

Applications are now open and close March 1, 2023

We will be conducting question and answer webinar on February 9th at 11:00 am pacific. Please sign up at: <https://forms.gle/ke4XrDeegx2U37T58> Please watch the information session prior to attending. (<https://youtu.be/5YQ4UEA7ssE>)

Website: <http://kin.educ.ubc.ca/programs/hp-coaching/>

Brochure: <http://educ-kin2016.sites.olt.ubc.ca/files/2018/11/School-of-Kinesiology-HPCTL-brochure-web.pdf>

If you have any questions about the program please email David Hill, Associate Director, Industry at the UBC School of Kinesiology, at dhill@csipacific.ca

“
This program is optimally positioned to produce high performance coaches and leaders who will enhance performance of Canadian athletes toward international podium achievement.
”

- Lorraine Lafrenière, CEO, Coaching Association of Canada

The Pinnacle of High Performance Coaching and Leadership

The UBC Masters in High Performance Coaching and Technical Leadership is a three-year specialized program for experienced sport coaches and technical leaders who are looking to advance in their careers and make a meaningful impact on high performance sport.

- Flexible online delivery for practicing coaches & performance directors plus two, week long face to face interactions
- One year Graduate Certificate ladders into a Masters Degree and provides transfer credit towards NCCP Advanced Coaching Diploma
- Flexible admission for individuals with recognized high performance sport experience but lacking formal academic background