FITNESS ASSESSMENTS

An initial Fitness Assessment is required prior to joining the program, and is required to be completed every 16 weeks.

Fitness assessments for semi-private training take place one-on-one with a certified personal trainer in the Osborne Center at UBC. You will arrive and meet your trainer and discuss your exercise history, and health and exercise goals. The trainer will then take your vitals and measure your anthropometrics. Next you will complete assessments of cardiovascular and musculoskeletal fitness. The trainer will discuss your results with you and then walk you through your individualized exercise program tailored to your goals and fitness level, giving you an opportunity to try each exercise and switch out exercises to suit your needs and preferences.
